A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act

The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore or write to: Consumer Financial Protection Bureau, 1700 G Street N.W., Washington, DC 20552.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or employment - or to take another adverse action against you - must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your "file disclosure"). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 - a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 - you are the victim of identity theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 - your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud;
 - you are on public assistance;
 - you are unemployed but expect to apply for employment within 60 days.

In addition, all consumers are entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A Consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need – usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to an employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.
- You may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited "prescreened" offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you chose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-567-8688.
- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or in some cases a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.consumerfinance.gov/learnmore.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. For information about your federal rights contact:

7. General Provisions

A. Final Decision on Contracts Written

The Company may at its sole discretion reject or postpone any application or offer an insurance policy or contract of a different kind, date, amount or at a different premium rate.

B. Statement of Account

The Company will at reasonable intervals make available to the Broker a statement of Broker's compensation and amounts owed by Broker to Company, and the Broker shall submit any objection to such statement, including the basis of the objection, in writing to the Company within sixty days after the Company made the statement available to the Broker. Broker's failure to object to a statement within those sixty days will act as Broker's waiver of any and all objections to the statement. This provision shall survive termination of this Contract.

C. Trust Funds

All monies collected from customers by Broker shall constitute trust funds, separate and distinct from all other funds of the Broker, and shall not be subject to any commingling or use whatsoever by Broker. All such monies shall be remitted to the Company as prescribed in Section 2, Subsection C of this Contract. This provision shall survive termination of this Contract.

D. Forbearance

The forbearance or neglect of the Company (whether continuing or not) to insist upon the strict compliance by the Broker with any of the provisions of this Contract shall not be construed as a waiver of any of the Company's rights or privileges pursuant to this Contract. No waiver of any right or privilege of the Company arising from any default or failure of performance by the Broker shall affect the Company's rights or privileges in the event of a further default or failure of performance.

E. Patriot Act Compliance

and the Bank Secrecy Act. Broker recognizes that such compliance requirements may change from time to time and agree to cooperate fully with the Company in its efforts to comply with those requirements. This provision shall survive termination of this Contract. Broker certifies and warrants that Broker undergoes anti-money laundering training at least once each calendar year.

F. Governing Law

This Contract shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of Indiana without regard to its choice of law provisions. This provision shall survive termination of this Contract.

G. Accuracy of Information

Broker represents and warrants to Company that, as of the Effective Date of this Contract, any information or documents provided to Company by Broker prior to the Effective Date, and the facts and other matters contained in such information or documents are true and accurate to the best of Broker's knowledge and belief.

H. Legal and Regulatory Proceedings

J. Arbitration

Any non-securities-related disputes between the Broker and the Company arising in any way out of this Agreement or are connected in any way to the activities conducted under this Agreement must be resolved through binding arbitration. Such arbitration will be conducted before a panel of three arbitrators in accordance with this Agreement, the Federal Arbitration Act, and the Commercial Rules of the American Arbitration Association (AAA). The panel members must be disinterested current or former executive officers of insurance companies each of which has at least ten years of experience in the insurance industry. The panel members may not be current or former directors, officers or employees of the parties to this Agreement or their respective affiliates or subsidiaries. Each party shall bear its own legal and related expenses and shall share the expenses of the arbitration panel. All arbitration hearings shall take place in Indianapolis, Indiana unless another location is agreed to by the parties.

However, any components of a dispute between the Broker and the Company that relate to the Company's securities products, if any, must be resolved through binding arbitration conducted in accordance with the FINRA Code of Arbitration Procedure for Industry Disputes. Disputes relating solely to non-securities insurance business activities will not be arbitrated under the Industry Code. For disputes involving both securities and non-securities issues, the securities issues will proceed to resolution under the FINRA Code prior to the conduct of the arbitration under the Commercial Rules of the AAA for the resolution of the remaining issues.

The arbitrators will have no power to award any punitive or exemplary damages. The arbitrators will have no power to ignore or vary the terms of this Agreement. The arbitrators must follow controlling law. The award of the arbitrators may be entered as a judgment in any court having proper jurisdiction.

This mandatory arbitration clause does not preclude parties from seeking provisional remedies in aid of arbitration from a court of appropriate jurisdiction.

This provision shall survive termination of this Contract.

K. Entire Agreement

This Contract represents the entire agreement between the parties. Any modifications, amendments, or supplemental agreements of this Contract's terms shall not be binding unless reduced to writing and signed by the Broker and an officer of the Company.

Although Broker may engage in multiple relationships with Company and the affiliated companies, unless expressly stated otherwise, only one Broker Contract with the Company shall exist at any one time and the most current dated version will automatically replace any and all previous Broker Contracts or other contracts made by the Broker and the Company or affiliated companies.

However, this contract shall not operate to relieve Broker of any debt obligation Broker incurred during the term of any preceding contracts between Broker and Company or between Broker and Company affiliates.
